House Rejects Plan Raising Ceiling On Mortgage Rates

Nixon Administration Hoping War Slowdown Is Deliberate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is looking for some sign that the recent sharp drop in combat and the reported cutback in North Vietnamese infiltration into the South mean Hanoi is deliberately slowing down the war.

But officials are not sure they will get such an indication.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers suggests these developments may be due to some "change of plans" by the enemy command. And he has held open the possibility they could lead to increased U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam when President Nixon reviews his plans next month.

Signal

But Rogers also told a news conference Wednesday the decline in enemy activities could be due to manpower supply problems or to a regrouping of forces for new attacks.

Other officials say privately a new enemy offensive is a definite possibility based on the present, admittedly inadequate information.

Some authorities believe if the developments have political significance they would eventually get some signals to that effect, perhaps through Soviet or other diplomatic channels, from Hanoi.

One way for the United States to probe what is happening — apart from watching developments, is to ask North Vietnamese peace negotiators in Paris. Rogers said this would be done "when the right time comes . . . we do not attach too much significance to it at this time."

On the North Vietnamese infiltration level, Rogers said "We are not quite sure what it means except that we know pretty conclusively that there has been a reduction in the infiltration in the last two months."

Movement Varies

At the Defense Department, however, military authorities tended to discount the significance of the reported drop. They said the total of North Vietnamese forces moving through the jungle trails normally varies from month to month.

Noting that figures of the enemy troop flow are gathered slowly from various sources, including prisoners, one officer commented that when more complete information on infiltration is available "we are not sure that it will drop off."

The military informants said they estimated movement of enemy troops into South Vietnam during the first half of the year averaged 8,000 to 10,000 men a month. They said North Vietnam's aim apparently has been to maintain about 100,000 fighting men in the South by constantly replacing casualties.

New Decision

Rogers expressed hope this constituted a deliberate response by North Vietnam to President Nixon's June 8 announcement of the withdrawal of 25,000 American troops by the end of August.

Nixon intends to make a new decision during August on whether he can further reduce U.S. forces.

He has said his decision, like the one in June, will be based on South Vietnam's ability to replace American soldiers on developments in the Paris peace talks and on the level of enemy activity in the field.

Builders Told To Go Elsewhere In Money Bind

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House has served notice on the state's construction and real estate industries to look elsewhere—to Congress or the Nixon Administration—if they seek aid to disadvantaged home mortgage interest rates.

Uncertain political consequences were the main reasons given by many legislators Wednesday for the House's 58-44 rejection of a plan to raise the current interest ceiling on real estate loans from 7 per cent to 8½ per cent.

The defeated 1½ per cent increase joined two other measures in the House graveyard: A Senate-approved bill for a 9 - per cent ceiling and a House committee proposal to strike the home mortgage limitation completely out of Michigan usury law both failed earlier in the lower chamber.

A total of 44 Democrats joined by 14 Republicans outvoted 35 Republicans and only nine Democrats willing to back the plan.

Little Hope

House Speaker William A. Ryan and Republican Minority Floor Leader William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, both indicated little chance of further action this session to raise the interest ceiling.

Several interest - rate measures that could be used for further action remain locked in the house insurance or private corporations committees.

Ryan termed unwaivering union opposition the basis for Democratic objection to the increase despite pleas by the National Association of Home Builders that "the private home building industry is facing a fight for survival."

Those words came earlier from the association's president, Nathaniel H. Rogg, testifying before a congressional banking committee.

Michigan legislators appeared willing to wait for federal action or economic attrition to close the gap home mortgage lenders say has been irrevocably widened by increase of the prime bank lending rate earlier last month from 7½ to 8½ per cent.

Opposition

Curiously enough, Ryan said, last minute opposition came from Detroit real estate interests.

"They took the position that people who didn't have to buy homes wouldn't," said Ryan. "They also decided the situation simply would be made worse by raising the ceiling from its established level."

Numerous amendments to include or exempt various businesses were proposed in preliminary action on the bill.

The House gave a more than 90-vote preliminary approval for elimination of additional interest charges through the use of required deposits, discounts, points or service charges.

Rep. John P. Smeekens, R - Sherwood, an outspoken opponent of the ceiling hike, won approval for an amendment that would have required banks and other money lenders to raise their per-share dividends to stockholders in the same proportion as the maximum rate increase.

Unconstitutional

Amid charges his amendment was unconstitutional, Smeekkens responded by challenging the constitutionality of the entire bill.

Although overruled by Ryan, Smeekens cited court rulings to support his contention the bill

Fourth Of July

A BURST OF FIREWORKS, repeated in every area of these United States, symbolizes the freedom and independence that is ours in this great country.

Fourth Features Fun, Festivities, Fireworks

Again this year, the July 4th weekend will be filled with fun and festivities.

The first July 4th celebrations established a pattern for the years to follow.

On July 8, 1776, a large crowd of Philadelphians congregated in Independence Square to listen to John Nixon read the Declaration of Independence, adopted four days before. Bells tolled day and night and guns saluted this joyous occasion.

The next year, the Continental Congress decided some arrangements should be made to celebrate the first anniversary of the Declaration. A special banquet was held in Philadelphia with a captured Hessian band providing music.

In 1788, Philadelphia once again celebrated the Fourth with a three-hour parade led by a carriage in the shape of an eagle with the words "The People" inscribed in gold on the front.

Community Gets Involved

Not until the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence was the Fourth truly celebrated as a community affair, however prior to that it was observed as a primarily partisan celebration where the party in power excluded its opponents from the festivities. Only with the death of both John Adams and Thomas Jefferson in 1826, was the young nation finally bound together.

The United States still celebrates this 193-year-old holiday with parades, picnics, band concerts and fireworks. Listed are some of the numerous festivities in our own area.

ESCANABA—A varied program of activities has been scheduled by the recreation department on Friday afternoon and evening at Ludington Park.

Races and novelty events for boys and girls 5 to 12 years of age will begin at 1:15 p. m. at the Karas Memorial Band Shell. The youngsters in those age groups will run in forward and backward races and compete in a ping-pong throwing contest.

In the games part of the program, boys and girls will compete in the following age groups: 5 and 6; 7 and 8; 9 and 10; 11 and 12. Prizes will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in each event. Erwood Slade of the recreation department staff will direct the games and races.

The 19th annual baby contest will begin at 2:15 p. m. on the stage of the band shell. Parents are asked to report at 1:15 p. m. to register their youngsters and to pick up their registration blanks and identification numbers. The contest is open to all babies two years of age through five whose parents have been residents of Delta County for at least six months. Babies will be judged on beauty, personality, and poise with prizes being donated by the Fair Store and the S. S. Kresge Co. of Escanaba.

Judging will be done by a committee headed by Lani Norton of Escanaba, Miss Delta County of 1968. The committee will include Mary Lynn Gafner, Miss Menominee of 1966, and Leroux Cowen, Miss Bay de Noc Community College of 1969. Also assisting in the baby contest will be Tara Malnor, Beverly Dittrich, Donna Hamilton, Joanne Johnson, Mary Jean Mathis, Theresa Debelak, and Connie Osier of the College Work Study Program.

The Greased Pig Chase, sponsored by the Escanaba Hawks hockey team, will be held near the tennis courts at 3 p. m.

A special Fourth of July concert will be presented from the band shell at 8 p. m. by the Escanaba City Band, under the direction of Paul Cowen, and has prepared a unique program featuring a patriotic narrative with appropriate background music.

The climax of the celebration will be the fireworks display at 9:15 p. m. under the supervision of Francis Lueneburg, director of the municipal swimming beach, and members of his staff of lifeguards.

Every effort will be made to halt the flow of traffic through the park during the fireworks and citizens are asked not to drive along Jenkins Drive until the final pieces have been fired. The tennis

Reds Releasing 3 U.S. Prisoners

PARIS (AP) — U.S. peace negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge expressed appreciation today for North Vietnam's announced intention to release three American prisoners and allow other prisoners to receive gifts from their families.

Speaking at the 24th weekly session of the deadlocked Vietnam peace talks, Lodge referred to a Hanoi radio broadcast that had promised the release "on the occasion of the American people's Independence Day."

"If this report is accurate," Lodge said, "I express appreciation on behalf of the U.S. government. I hope that this action will lead to further and more general prisoner releases by your side and to such other humanitarian acts as a list of names of prisoners, permission for all prisoners to correspond with their families and release of sick and wounded prisoners.

"We stand ready to discuss here in Paris whatever detailed arrangements may be necessary."

Referring to the peace talks, Lodge said the refusal of Hanoi and the Viet Cong to negotiate with the Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thieu was a main obstacle to progress.

South Vietnam also accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of rejecting all serious discussions.

Acting North Vietnamese delegate Ha Van Lau said the United States and Saigon pretended to maintain a flexible attitude while accusing their adversary of holding to a rigid position. At the same time, Lau said, they claim to look for common ground between the two sides.

Lau again accused the United States of intensifying the war and continuing air attacks on North Vietnam's southern most provinces.

Fulbright Bucks ABM Backers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright is trying to turn the tables on President Nixon by bucking administration nominees who support deployment of Safeguard antiballistic missiles—ABMs.

At Fulbright's direction the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he heads has passed over Nixon's nomination of William J. Casey as a member of the General Advisory Committee of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. Casey, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Peace with Security, is leading a publicity campaign for the administration ABM program which Fulbright strongly opposes.

All 15 appointees to the agency got caught in the same hold order.

In addition, Fulbright said he expects to recall Spurgeon M. Keeny Jr., chosen for assistant director of the disarmament agency.

President Nixon told an April news conference he had decided not to appoint Dr. Franklin Long of Cornell University as head of the National Science Foundation because of the latter's opposition to ABM.

While Fulbright didn't say so, it seemed obvious to his colleagues the Arkansas Democrat is of a mind to make the road difficult for appointees who get out in front in support of ABM, an issue that will come before the Senate after the July 4 recess.

Fulbright said he wants to explore "the published views" of Casey. The chairman made it clear he was concerned about a newspaper advertisement in which Casey's committee said a public opinion poll showed 84 per cent of Americans support ABM. Fulbright questions that assessment.

Calls Thank Ontonagon Man

ONTONAGON (AP) — William Stenson says his phone rang continuously Wednesday after a story was published in which he said 22 Ontonagon area youths won transfers from Vietnam as a result of his going to Washington last year.

"I had over 35 long distance calls," he said. He said many persons thanked him for his campaign.

The 69-year-old Stenson said he talked with Defense Secretary Clark Clifford by phone over a year ago and also conferred in person with Alfred Fitt, an assistant defense secretary in charge of manpower affairs.

Stenson is Republican Party chairman in Ontonagon County.

Stenson said he requested that youths from Ontonagon County be allowed to transfer from Vietnam to noncombat zones because of the high casualty rate of area soldiers, from the 2,500-population area. Seven soldiers had died by June 1968 and one other has died since then.

Military officials disputed the report that any area was given favored treatment.

Rodeo Days

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Aug. 9 and 10 as Copper County Rodeo Days to mark the rodeo planned on those dates by Houghton and Hancock.

Pentagon 'Lost' Viet Petroleum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tens of millions of gallons of petroleum shipped to U.S. fighting forces in Vietnam could not be accounted for in 1967 because of what Pentagon auditors brandH ewas Army Spec. 4 Larry C. complex, unmanageable accounting system.

In case after case, a nine-man Joint Petroleum Technical Assistance Team concluded it was impossible to learn with certainty whether any of thousands of petroleum shipments inside Vietnam ever reached their destinations.

This was true, it said, due to confusion, negligence and the stresses of war and because receipts, reports and other vital documents were either ignored or not filled out correctly.

In one instance, the team reported, the Air Force could not account for $21 million in petroleum products the team blamed the loss on incomplete terminal reporting, saying no records exist as to whom the fuels were delivered.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who last year triggered a General Accounting Office investigation which disclosed the theft of millions of gallons of fuel in Thailand, asked the Pentagon to release its private Vietnam fuel report.

In a letter to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, Proxmire said he also wanted to know if any more recent petroleum auditing investigations have been made in Vietnam.

He asked details on steps taken to shore up the system as it existed in fiscal 1967 and in early 1968 when the auditors' report was compiled and written.

"In view of the gross inadequacies i the preparations' distribution and control of documentation for receipt, storage and distribution of bulk POL (fuels and lubricants, the team concluded breakdown in the accounting system," the report said.

"All participants agreed," it said at another point," that team recommendations, if implemented, would result in improved property administration and accounting.

"Without exception, however, the consensus was that the complexities of the current system with split responsibilities are completely unmanageable," it said. "Thus control and accounting for POL throughout Vietnam will undoubtedly be a continuing problem."

Chinese Sink Red Gunboat

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist Chinese commandos sank two Red Chinese supply boats amd one gunboat and damaged another gunboat in a raid Wednesday night at a Communist naval base on the Min River in Fukien Province, intelligence sources said today.

The sources said all the raiders returned to their base safely. They were only identified as members of the Sea Guerrilla Force of the Anti-Communist National Salvation Corps.

The reports were distributed by the official Central News Agency. They did not disclose the number of guerrillas nor their vessels.

The sources did not say how far the guerrillas penetrated up the Min River, which runs into the Formosa Strait about 125 miles from the Nationalist Chinese island.

It was the first sea battle reported between Nationalist and Red Chinese forces in 3½ years, although a Defense Ministry spokesman called it "guerrilla affairs, not a regular sea battle."

U.P. Parksites More Plentiful

DETROIT (AP) — If you want to be sure of getting a campsite in a Michigan state park in the lower peninsula this holdiay weekend, you should have left Thursday.

Campsites in the lower peninsula will be almost impossible to find this Fourth of July weekend with almost all sure to be filled by Friday afternoon, the Automobile Club of Michigan reported Wednesday.

Some campsites have already turned away a dozen or more families, and others report only a very few vacancies.

The situation isn't as bad in the Upper Peninsula, with a number of parks indicating expected vacancies.

Vacationers are urged to know their destination in advance and have alternate camping areas available.

Interest Ceiling To Limit Loans

If the legislature fails to appsove an increase in the interest rate ceiling, real estate loans in Escanaba and across the state will become extremely difficult to get.

That was the opinion expressed today by James Schultz, vice president of Northern Michigan National Bank of Escanaba, in the wake of the Michigan House of Representative's 58-44 defeat Wednesday of a measure which would have raised the ceiling on interest for real estate loans from 7 to 8½ per cent.

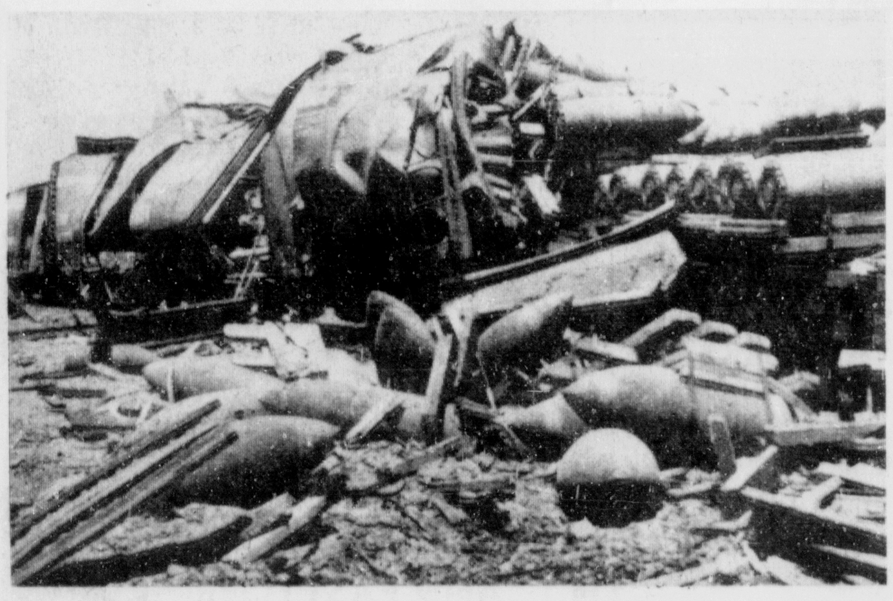

Michigan is one of five states in the nation with a 7 per cent ceiling.

Schultz said banks cannot afford to lend money on home mortgages at 7 per cent when 11 per cent can be earned, for example, buying municipal bonds.

Unless the Michigan ceiling is changed, he said, banks will be forced to limit credit to those persons with "substantial" down payments and even at that to only the best credit risks.

Schultz said Lansing banks now are not writing any conventional real estate loans to anyone unless the person is able to produce at least 40 per cent of the purchase price — $8,000 on a $20,000 home — as a down payment. On FHA loans at 7½ per cent to which the state law does not apply the Lansing banks are charging "points," a percentage of the total loan, to bring the interest rate up.

In real estate loans written by most larger banks now, he continued, stipulations are being written into contracts whereby the bank can adjust the interest rate upwards if the Michigan law is changed. That practice, however, cannot continue indefinately, he indicated.

Board May Designate Osteopathic School

LANSING (AP) — The question of an osteopathic medical school appeared near settlement Wednesday after the Senate approved a bill authorizing the State Board of Education to designate a state university to supervise the facility.

The bill, passed 24-8, now faces final House consideration.

The upper chamber earlier approved an osteopathic college bill specifying that it be affiliated with Wayne State University. The House, meanwhile, passed a measure leaving affiliation of the osteopathic school to the discretion of the State Board of Education.

The bill approved in the Senate represented a compromise.

It directs the State Education Board to assign the college "as an affiliate to an established state university authorized to grant baccalaureate degrees..."

Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and Wayne State are considered prime possibilities for the affiliation.

MSU has indicated willingness to accept the osteopathic college sponsorship, in hopes to receiving legislative approval for funds to increase their current two-year allopathic program.

U-M and Wayne State have not appeared eager to supervise the osteopathic branch in addition to their already functioning medical schools, although they have said they would teach osteopathic courses.

The Senate version of the bill specifies that an osteopathic board supply $500,000 for its operation.

Gov. William Milliken had recommended a $323,000 appropriation for the school. The Senate bill deleted provisions for that funding from the House measure.

Sponsors said a private medical school, now under construction near Pontiac, likely would be designated to receive the state funds.

3,300 Patients Treated Locally Under Medicare

This week, as the nation's Medicare program celebrated its third birthday, Alice Lampinen, a 71-year-old Wallace resident had good reason to be pleased with the program of health insurance for the elderly.

Mrs. Lampinen, who was getting ready to leave St. Francis Hospital in Escanaba on Medicare's anniversary date, will have most of her two week's hospital bill paid by Medicare. In addition, Medicare provides help toward paying her doctor bills.

Mrs. Lampinen's situation is certainly not unique, said Arnold T. Williams, Escanaba social security district manager.

In three years, Medicare has covered over 600,000 hospital stays of elderly people in Michigan, and has paid over $450 million in hospital bills in the state.

Medicare also paid over $123 million for doctor's and other medical services for Michigan residents.

At St. Francis Hospital during the three year period, reports Sister Hildegard, administrator, over 3,300 patients out of a total of over 12,500 admittances were treated under the Medicare program, and Medicare patient days were 63,750 out of a total of 131,522.

This means an average of 48 per cent of all inpatient days were covered by the Medicare program locally, she said.

That Medicare has worked well is due to the cooperation and hard work of thousands of people both outside and inside the government, Williams said. The hospital administrators, medical people, and others who work with the Medicare program have all been essential to its success.

ALICE LAMPINEN, 71, of Wallace, center, talks with Sister Hildegard, St. Francis Hospital administrator, and Arnold T. Williams, social security district manager in Escanaba, durng Medicare's three-year anniversary month. Mrs. Lampinen is among more than 3,300 patients with Medicare insurance treated at St. Francis Hospital since Medicare began July 1, 1966.

Col. McClendon Ends 28 Years In Air Force

K. I. SAWYER AFB—After an active military career of nearly 28 years, Col. Lee McClendon, commander of the 410th Combat Support Group, K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base is retiring.

Col. McClendon was presented the First Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Force Commendation Medal in ceremonies Monday.

The accompanying citation read, in part, "Col. Lee McClendon distinguished himself by meritorious service as Group Deputy Commander and Group Commander, 410th Combat Support Group, from June 18, 1968 to May 31, 1969. During this period, he consistently demonstrated outstanding leadership ability, devotion to duty, and intense loyalty to the performance of his duties."

Col. McClendon came to Sawyer from a position as commander of the 3rd Combat Support Group, Bien Hoa Air Base, Vietnam.

Michigan Gets Crime Funds

LANSING (AP) — Michigan will receive nearly $900,000 in federal funds to fight crime in the state, Gov. William Milliken has announced.

Milliken Tuesday said the Justice Department has approved Michigan's comprehensive law enforcement plan, presented last month in a 328-page report.

The funds, provided under the 1968 Omnibus Safe Streets and Crime Control Act, will allow state law enforcement agencies to implement the plan, Milliken said.

The plan calls for merger of Detroit Recorder's Court and the Wayne County Circuit Court, amending the state constitution to allow the governor to appoint judges for life, passage of a state wiretap law and creation of a new statewide anticrime agency.

College Students Tour 15 States

Bay de Noc Community College students returned to Escanaba recently from a geological field studies tour which took them through 15 states, Mexico, and Canada.

The tour was guided by Associate Professors Richard Bucksar, geographer, and Donald Miller, historian.

Purpose of the tour was to study U. S. geology with an emphasis on water preservation. A secondary benefit was to provide 18 students an opportunity to experience this country first hand on a camping expedition, said Bucksar.

First travel was through Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri and Oklahoma.

In Oklahoma the change in vegetation to the arid, dry and sparse semi-desert type first became noticeable and rock formations and camping in Red Rock Canyon proved both instructive and enjoyable. In Arizona stops were made in the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest, but the spectacle of the Grand Canyon was an overwhelming sight and example of erosion by wind, water and weather, Bucksar said.

Special side trips to Hoover Dam, Lake Mead and Boulder City emphasized the special purpose of the field studies — water preservation. Students were highly impressed by the massive size of the great Hoover Dam and the inland water recreation area the dam has created in Lake Mead.

Cross Death Valley

The field trip next covered the desert area of Nevada and Southern California with stops in Las Vegas, Mexicali (Mexico), and the irrigation projects, where water preservation projects are at work recovering vast areas of arid desert land. The tour then crossed Death Valley and students saw America's "Dead Sea," the Salton Sea, an inland sea of salt water in Southern California that is 250 feet below sea level.

Traveling north through California from the valley floor to the mountain tops — from Death Valley to Sequola National Forest — students observed the transition from desert to forest and substantial changes in water resources.

Students visited San Francisco, Oakland, and the San Joaquin Valley — mostly in the rain, and after California, there was Oregon and Washington.

Wheat Farms Observed

Studies were made at camps on the Columbia River in the first growing areas around Yakima Valley, Wash.

The trip proceeded to Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada, for observations of dry wheat farming where fallowing strips were used instead of irrigation, and at Regina, Saskatchewan, to see the center of Canaidan irrigation projects (and the Queen city of Western Canada).

The final portion of the trip was routed through Idaho, Montana, and the Dakotas and Minnesota. In 21 days the tour covered several thousand miles. The trip was a four credit college course in Geography..

Students making the tour were: James M. Beckstrom, Nancy J. Casey, Mary Beth Christensen, Walter N. Coolman, Cheryl Eis, Alfred A. Gossan, Mary M. Lauzon, Mary Snyder, Dennis F. Wood, Robert B. Woodard and Judith Zimmerman, all of Escanaba; Jean Dahl, Rte. 2, Escanaba; Jacqueline Dittrich, Rte. 1, Bark River; Ross G. Feak, Rte. 1, Escanaba; Marge Sauve, Mounted Rte., Escanaba; Catherine and Jean Strasler, both of Nadeau, and Camile Rabitoy, Gladstone.

Broadway Joe

The man who engineered the biggest upset in professional football history upset legions of football followers a couple of weeks ago by announcing his retirement from the gridiron at the zenith of his career.

Almost no one believed Joe Willie Namath when he said last January that his New York Jets of the still-fledgling American Football League would humiliate the powerful Baltimore Colts of the established NFL, but that is exactly what Namath and the Jets did.

Now almost no one believes Namath will still be retired — at 26 years of age — as quarterback of the Jets when the football season gets underway this month.

But Namath announced that he would retire from the game rather than kneel to the demand of Commissioner Pete Rozelle that he sell his one third interest in the Broadway bar known as Bachelors III. While making it absolutely clear that he had no evidence on any wrong-doing on Namath's part, Rozelle also made it clear that certain undesirable types have been steady customers of Bachelors III, among them known professional gamblers and an admitted bank robber. (Since that time, Joe Cronin, president of the American baseball league, has directed ballplayers to stay away from the New York bar because of some of its cliental).

* * *

Namath is a real swinger, but this hasn't seemed to dull his ability as a quarterback. When fame and fortune came his way, he found himself as much at home in Manhattan as he had been quarterbacking the Crimson Tide at the University of Alabama. It's no wonder that he developed a fond attachment for the Bachelors III (so named, incidentally, for Namath and the two other bachelors who own the bar-restaurant, Bobby Van and Ray Abruzzi, former Jet teammates).

Broadway Joe takes the position that the principle is on his side and that he has every right to be part owner of the East Side establishment. Namath sees nothing wrong in this business arrangement as long as he, himself, is above reproach in his dealings with the public. He insists that his sense of principle will not allow him to capitulate to Rozelle's ultimatum.

* * *

Rozelle takes the broader view. He and all of professional sports are mindful of the necessity for maintaining a scrupulously clean image. (Baseball executives Bob Bartolomay of the Atlanta Braves and Charlie Finley of the Oakland Athletics were forced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to divest themselves of interests in Las Vegas gambling when they were discovered).

A half century has passed since the Black Sox scandal of 1919, but its scars are still visable to those who oversee the professional sports world.

Even a hint of scandal means trouble; witness the swift retribution visited upon Alex Karras and Paul Hornung by the same Pete Rozelle when those two stars were involved in some minor gaming episodes some years back.

The simple fact is that pro football is big business and one of Rozelle's principal tasks is to protect the stockholders in that business. Namath may stand on principle, but the people he works for stand on profits, profits which could be jeopardized if the public — and the television networks — have reason to question the conduct of the participants.

As Rozelle said, association with gamblers, even if it is innocent, "gives the appearance of evil whether or not it actually exists and therefore affects the player's reputation, the reputation of his fellow players and the integrity of his sport."

The only way for Namath to win this one is to get off the bench and back into the game.

The Family Lawyer

"Concealed Weapons"

"That guy is so tough," runs an old gag, "that if he puts his hands in his pockets, he could be arrested for carrying concealed weapons."

He couldn't though, no matter how deadly his fists, because they would not be "concealed." In spite of the fabric covering the pockets, anyone could tell that his hands were there.

For contrast, consider this case:

A man arrested with a gun in his pocket argued that it had not really been concealed, because it made a distinct and visible bulge.

But the court decided there was still sufficient concealment to make the man guilty of not enough warning, to an ordinary observer, the charge. The judge said a mere bulge was that the man was armed.

It is this test — obviousness to an ordinary observer — that the law usually applies in deciding whether a person is carrying a concealed weapon. Thus, a gun would not be considered concealed simply because a particular person, looking from a particular angle, was unable to see it. For example:

A man who had a gun openly displayed in his belt, was found not guilty of the offense. Even though the arresting officer — approaching from behind — could not see the gun, it was obvious enough for ordinary observation.

And what does "carrying" mean? Does the person actually have to be foving with the gun?

One man, seeing an officer near by, hastily slipped his pistol into an inside pocket. Arrested and brought to trial for carrying a concealed weapon, he offered this defense to the court:

" 'Carrying' means transporting the weapon from one place to another. I did not move a single step."

But the court pointed out that, although "carrying" could mean "transporting," it could also mean just "possessing." The judge decided to pick the meaning which, considering the purpose of the law, made the most sense — and he found the man guilty.

'Reverse Peace Corps' Under Consideration

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The quarrel over such programs as Foreign Aid and the Peace Corps has come to resemble the fight over the rate of withdrawal from South Vietnam.

The Nixon Administration is at least formally committed to the idea that other nations had best be left to run their own affairs. It does not believe, however, that the United States, which ever since 1945 has had to shoulder the task of nerving up non-Communist countries to fight for their own integrity, can afford to reverse its policies in one grand retreat into isolationism.

So, for South Vietnam, the program is for withdrawal at a rate of speed commensurate with the development of local ability to hold the Communists in check. This doesn't suit the dove Senators, some of whom seem to act as if they were agitating for a disguised surrender to the Viet Cong. As for Foreign Aid and the Peace Corps, the Congressional battle lines are forming over President Nixon's idea of making subtle changes, still under limited government supervision, that will alter the tempo of aid programs without winding them up precipitately.

* * *

Going before Congressional committees to justify the money they want for changed directions in their programs, Foreign Aid Director John Hannah and Peace Corps Director Joseph Blatchford encounter skepticism about their aims.

Hannah wants $100 million for something called OPIC (or Overseas Private Investment Corporation) to help promote free enterprise in foreign countries. He argues that this will eventually lessen the need for foreign aid.

His critics say this is window dressing designed to save the full $2.7 bilion foreign aid sum that Nixon hopes to wangle out of a Congress that cut the program to $1.7 billion last year. The test of Hannah's sincerity will be his willingness to substitute OPIC for something else he is seeking by way of direct giveaway propositions.

Peace Corps Director Blatchford's situation is not so dubious as Hannah's, for the Peace Corps is generally considered one of the late President John F. Kennedy's better ideas.

Even so, Blatchford, who started the privately financed Accion en Venezuela and a similar organization in Brazil to promote self-help in the worst Latin American slums, is devoted to removing the stigma of charity when young U. S. volunteers are sent abroad to help the "natives" learn something about farming or whatever. He wants to trade help for help, with foreign Peace Corps volunteers coming here.

* * *

It so happens that a pilot "reverse Peace Corps" is already in existence. Called Volunteers to America, it has been functioning under the Hays-Fulbright Act as a State Department "cultural" project.

Since 1967, 16 foreign countries have sent a total of 105 volunteers to the U. S. During the last year 64 foreign volunteers have been here. They have been living with American families, teaching Spanish and geography in American schools, and helping U. S. school districts improve the world affairs aspects of "social studies."

The cost to the U. S. taxpayer er last year was a negligible $28,000, for the foreign countries paid for the offshore transportation of their volunteers, and once the boys and girls had fanned out across the U. S., with half of them going to small town, suburban, and rural areas, local people picked up the tab from that point on.

Of last year's foreign volunteers to America 42 were from Latin America, eight were from East Asia (four Japanese, two Koreans and two Filipinos), six from Africa, and eight from the Middle East.

* * *

Now the idea is to shift Volunteers to America to the Peace Corps, and Director Joe Blatchford is asking for $100,000 to finance internal U. S. travel, insurance, and a six-week training program for the "reverse Peace Corps."

Blatchford thinks that if the Peace Corps is made reciprocal, it will no longer be considered just another Yankee impertinence. The Shah of Iran and Bruce Mackenzie, the Minister of Agriculture in Kenya, have both assured Blatchford that reciprocity in Peace Corps services is highly desirable, and the idea should appeal to countries like Mexico which do not want "foreign aid."

Eventually, the foreign volunteers to America will return home, possibly to do work in their own lands that is now being done by the U. S. Peace Corps. This would more than please Joe Blatchford, who is not the sort of fellow that goes into government to build a personal empire.

Most People Won't Enjoy Middle Age

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with middle age is that most of the people undergoing it don't know how to relax and enjoy it.

They tend to regard it as teen-agers do acne—something they'd like to hide if they could. They see it as an affliction, not a blessing.

But every period of life has its advantages—yes, even middle age. For example, when you're middle-aged—

It is no longer really necessary to waste money buying alarm clocks. Your conscience will wake you up.

While every work day does get to feel like Monday, that means you look forward with five times as much eagerness toward Saturday and Sunday.

Hair Combing Easier

As there are fewer women older than you, there are fewer that you have to get up and yield your bus seat to.

It doesn't take you so long to comb your hair, and the time you save can be put to more constructive use.

Realizing she must conserve your waning energy, your wife is more willing to take the dog for a walk in bad weather. She may even pitch in and help shovel the snow off the driveway in winter.

As your diet no longer allows you to eat gravy, it becomes impossible for you to spill it on a new necktie.

Many people in the upper reaches of middle age no longer have to tire themselves out brushing their teeth. They can simply take them out and soak them in a glass overnight.

Who has to go to PTA meetings? Other people, yes. You, no. Your fledglings have flown away.

Being able now to look at women more realistically and less romantically, you're surprised to find that many of them are really pretty nice people and actually not bad company.

Outlast Mortgage

Your children have reached an age where they are no longer ashamed of you—and you are no longer so afraid they'll wind up in jail.

The probability emerges that you will outlast the mortgage on your home after all.

Perhaps you've passed the point where you can look forward to a major promotion. On the other hand, you've been around so long that the boss would hesitate to fire you without thinking twice about it. And since thinking is hard work for your boss, he is unlikely to do it twice.

No longer do you stay at a cocktail party until after midnight. You have learned that the only important thing that happens at a party after midnight is trouble.

Yes, middle age can be downright pleasurable. The only way it could be improved would be for it to come about 25 years later in life, then last 25 years longer.

Cannonball Gets Another Year

DETROIT (AP) — The Wabash Cannonball has at least one more year to live.

The legendary train was given a reprieve Wednesday when the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled that Norfolk & Western Railway must continue operation of the train, the last rail link between Detroit and St. Louis.

N&W must now wait a year before reapplying for permission to drop the train.

The ICC cited the large public demand for the Cannonball, which carried some 58,534 passengers last year, despite the railway's contention that it lost over one million dollars on the train in 1967 and 1968.

The ICC said the train's operation "posed little [illegible] to the solvency" of N&W, which "in 1968 had a net income of more than $74 million."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South

Opening lead—king of hearts.

The squeeze can be an enormously powerful weapon when properly applied. Here is an unusual case from a rubber bridge game.

South was in four spades and West led the king of hearts. Declarer won with the ace, led the queen of spades, which held, and another spade, taken by East with the ace. East returned a diamond, making it clear that he had started with only one heart and West with seven.

Declarer won, drew two more rounds of trumps, and then cashed three more diamonds to produce this position:

South knew from the bidding that East had the ace of clubs, since West would not have made a preemptive bid with seven hearts to the K-Q-J and the ace of clubs on the side. It was therefore futile to lead a club at this point in the hope of finding West with the ace.

Instead, declarer led his last trump in the hope that West had the queen of clubs, in which case he would be hard put to find a convenient discard.

And so it turned out. West had to choose between discarding a heart or a club. When he elected to discard the ten of clubs, South led a low club to the king and made his tenth trick with the jack of clubs.

It would not have helped West to discard a heart. In that case, declarer would discard a heart from dummy and exit with a heart, forcing West to lead either the ten or queen of clubs to give South his tenth trick.

Ann Landers

Strict Father Can't Find Ol' Hair Brush

Dear Ann Landers: I need your cool, smart head to see me through this one. Yesterday I ran into a large collection of the filthiest pornography ever assembled in one place. There were several magagines, pictures of live people (not drawings), and advertisements for gadgets I never knew existed. It made me sick. I discovered this unspeakable trash in a suit box under our 16-year-old son's bed. The boy is an honor student, an excellent athlete and has many friends, both boys and girls. I can't imagine him being interested in this stuff, but obviously he is because the mailing envelopes are addressed to him, which is proof he sent for the trash.

The boy's father died two years ago and I feel helpless. So far I have said nothing to him. I am waiting for word from you on how to handle the situation. Please advise me. — Unsure Mother

Dear Mother: Confront your son with the junk and tell him you found it under his bed. Tell him you are surprised that he'd spend his time and money on trash designed for fourth rate minds.

Don't appear shaken or condemnatory. Just let him know you are disappointed. Hand over the material and tell him the stuff is his and he can do whatever he wishes with it. If he keeps it, say nothing. From your description of the boy he appears to be stable and solid and the junk will not hurt him. (P. S. I'll bet he doesn't keep it long. Bright people become bored with pornography when the novelty wears off — and it wears off in a hurry.)

Dear Ann: When I married Elsie she weighed 98 pounds. She gained 15 pounds with each baby (we have three children) and she hasn't lost any of it. Elsie loves to eat and hates to exercise. Last week she asked me for an additional $20 a week for massages. She said the girls in her card club insist massages are a great way to lose weight.

I don't see how massages are going to help Elsie if she continues to eat everything in sight and shun exercise. She insists that the electrical equipment and the massager's ability to pummel off the fat is the secret.

If you say she is right I will hand over the extra money.— Unconvinced.

Dear Un: I hate to deprive Elsie of the massages because they might help her relax. But they will not make her thinner.

If Elsie eats like there is no tomorrow and continues to sit on her fatty acids (courtesy Dr. Paul Dudley White) she won't lose an ounce.

Dear Ann: In the old days parents used to paddle their kids with hair brushes. My ma used one on all six of us and it really kept us in line.

Today it is impossible to find a wooden hair brush large enough to hit a kid with. What do you suggest? — Strict Pa

Dear Pa: God provided the very best instrument for keeping kids in line. It is called the hand — and I heartily recommend it.

Michigan Navy Not Abolished

LANSING (AP) — The Senate Wednesday passed and sent to the governor a bill that does "not abolish the Michigan navy because we don't have any."

The bill provides that those commissioned in Michigan's naval militia for five years or longer would be discharged unless an extension request were made in writing and approved. It provides further that the governor may commission persons who promote interest in Michigan.

"This doesn't abolish the naval militia," contended Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek. "I don't know of any Michigan navy."

Commissions, he explained, were "certificates of honrary membership."

The measure carried 34-2.

Sen. Stanley Rozycki, D-Detroit, voted "no" because "I don't think we need any navy."

The only other opposition came from Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham — a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserves.

McGovern Tells Of Secret Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. G. S. McGovern disclosed Wednesday he met in secret for 10 hours last May with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators in Paris.

He said he came away convinced that progress in the peace talks is impossible until the United States starts "the systematic withdrawal of all our forces," and stops unqualified support of the Thieu government.

He said the other side would respond quickly to ease off their military pressure if the United States changed strategy and withdrew troops.

The South Dakota Democrat, a longtime critic of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, disclosed his meeting and its details in a prepared Senate speech and in a briefing for newsmen.

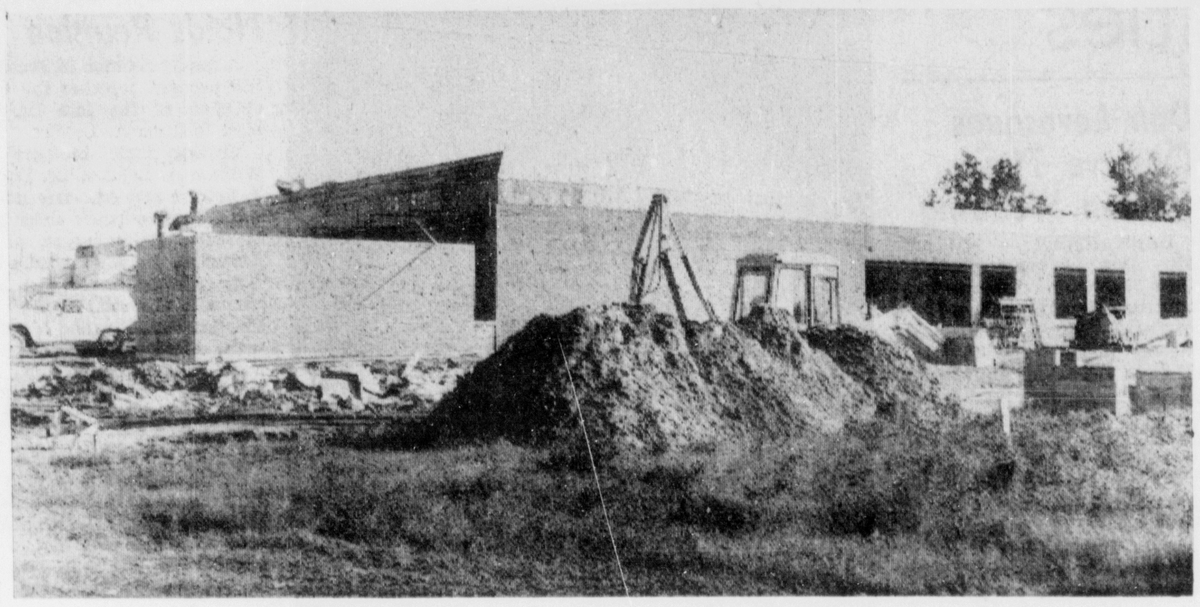

He said he discussed the plan in advance with chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge, who he said agreed "it might be helpful." He added he reported at length on his return to the State Department and to Dr. Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser. He said he has seen no change in the administration's attitude.

He emphasized that he told the North Vietnamese he had no authority to speak for the United States but was interested, as a senator and private citizen, in asking questions.

"I am certain," he went on, "that we should now notify Saigon, Hanoi, the NLF and other interested parties that we are definitely moving out all of our forces and that the only consideration on the speed of the withdrawal will be the safety of our men.

"There will be no negotiations in Paris or elsewhere worthy of the name until we stop our offensive military operations and begin the systematic withdrawal of all of our forces—preferably during the next 12 months," he said.

He added: "The second point which Hanoi and the NLF make clear is that there will be no negotiations so long as we continue our unqualified embrace" of the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

amounted to banking legislation under the state constitution and required a two-thirds vote for passage.

"We have here by your ruling a definite, clear, justicable, issue that undoubtedly is going to find its way into the courts," Smeekens charged.

But many legislators showed their concern was less with constitutional than political questions, appeared willing to believe time would make all well.

Ex-Rolling Stone, Brian Jones, Dies

LONDON (AP) — Brian Jones, 26-year-old pop music idol who rose to stardom as one of Britain's Rolling Stones, died today while taking a midnight swim at his Hartfield home. The tour manager of the singing group said asthma may have contributed to his death.

Tom Keylock said: "It is possible that Brian had an attack of asthma while he was bathing. Jones has suffered from asthma for some years and it was particularly bad when there was a lot of pollen about. There was an asthma inhaler, which Brian used to help him with his breathing, at the side of the swimming pool."

Lawmakers Work On Budget Compromise

LANSING (AP) — As most lawmakers scattered for the holiday weekend, a small group of legislative budget planners worked at rewriting the $1.534 billion check to pay Michigan's bills for the current fiscal year.

The House and Senate both have approved their own versions of appropriations bills and conference committees are trying to hammer out compromise measures.

Both chambers agreed Wednesday to conference versions of three spending bills before adjourning for the long Fourth of July weekend.

Passed with little debate in either house were bills allocating $35.07 million to the Departments of Military Affairs and State Police; $27.49 million for corrections and $20.19 million for Public Health.

Unsettled

Among questions still unsettled were House and Senate differences in the $295.5 million higher education bill; a massive $289.3 million welfare appropriation; and a $47.6 million capital outlay bill from which the House struck $4 million earmarked by the upper chamber for new Capitol construction.

Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, said he expected final legislative approval by the end of next week on the bills still to be reported from conference committees.

Zollar said the higher education measure could prove especially troublesome, partly because of $1.6 million the House included for what has been termed a "paper college," the yet-to-be constructed Wayne County Community College.

The House also added more than $4 million to the Senate appropriation for the University of Michigan.

Zollar said a compromise was imminent on the welfare bill, from which the Senate struck $750,000 for the State Housing authority.

The funds, which Senate Democrats fought for unsuccessfully, would be reinserted in the bill, Zollar indicated. But he said the total appropriation — nearly $30 million over Gov. William Milliken's recommendation — would remain the same.

Reinsert Money

Zollar said the $750,000 would be taken from other earmarked funds in the Senate version of the bill.

He and Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, also on the Appropriations Comittee, both strongly endorsed the $4 million for the new Capitol — chopped out in a surprise House move last week.

The money would be reinserted, Zollar said.

He added, however, that the conferees also would include provisions that other architectural firms and groups such as the State Council on the Arts may become involved in plans for the new Capitol.

Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, led the successful move to delete the $4 million, objecting in part to the fact that only one architectural firm — Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, Inc., the state architect — had a hand in designing the proposed new Capitol.

Young Can't Run For Mayor

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's State Supreme Court Wednesday ruled that State Sen. Coleman Young cannot run for mayor of Detroit because of a state constitution provision interpreted as meaning state legislators cannot seek another office until their terms expire.

Young, a Negro Democrat, said he will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court. However, the filing deadline for the election is July 26 and it appeared unlikely Young could get a favorable decision by then.

The only other major black candidate now in the race is Wayne County Auditor Richard H. Austin, whose campaign, Young said, "is not catching on, because he hasn't given the people anything to sink their teeth into as far as what he would do as mayor."

Young has been increasingly irritated by Austin's failure to outline a specific platform on such issues as community control of police. Austin said he would begin announcing his program in about a month.

The Wednesday decision, issued without comment, upheld an earlier decision by Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan Jr.

Michigan Needs Med. Specialists

LANSING (AP) — Michigan gained 407 registered doctors and 4,600 more nurses this year over last year—but there still is a need for more trained medical specialists, reports the Michigan Health Council.

A council health manpower survey showed every area of Michigan with an improvement in medical manpower except the Upper Peninsula.

The survey showed Michigan still needs about 2,000 more medical doctors alone.

The total registered for the Upper Peninsula remained the same as 1968—227 medical doctors and nine osteopathic doctors. This was although there were some losses and gains of doctors among counties.

The gain for the state included 363 medical doctors and 44 osteopathic physicians. There were 2,389 more registered nurses and 2,211 more licensed practical nurses.

The total of medical doctors in the state increased from 8,379 to 8,742. The osteopathic doctor registration increased from 1,943 to 1,947.

The registered nurse increase went from 41,410 to 43,799. The licensed practical nurse increase was from 17,213 to 19,424.

"Substantial improvements in salaries paid to Michigan nurses is one of the reasons for the impressive increase," the report said.

"Many programs to encourage trained nurses to return to their profession as well as many new programs in community college are encouraging more young women and men to enter nursing."

The report said there still is a need for about 2,000 more medical doctors in the state.

The end of the Vietnam War would greatly help the situation, it was noted. The council reported 571 Michigan medical doctors still are serving in Vietnam and other locations with the military service.

Milliken Pleads For Safe Driving

LANSING (AP) — "Return home safely," Gov. William Milliken urged in a plea for cautious driving over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

For many Americans, Milliken said, the Fourth will end "not in fireworks, but in the crash of tangled steel and the wail of sirens."

Milliken said Michigan has been averaging a traffic accident every one minute and 43 seconds. During the past six years, he said, an average of 32 persons have been killed on Michigan highways over the Fourth of July weekend.

The governor reminded motorists that 71 per cent of all Michigan traffic fatalities occur in rural areas.

"If you drink, don't drive," the governor counseled. "Don't take chances. Stay alert. Don't hurry.

District Court

The case of Robert Henry Koch, of Garden, who had been charged with auto theft and forgery, was dismissed Wednesday in District Court.

Koch is presently serving four consecutive three-year terms in the Florida State Prison.

Governor Given Recreation Bill

LANSING (AP) — The $100 million recreation bond bill — hotly debated for months—was on its way to the governor today after final legislative approval of a face - saving compromise.

But charges of "breaking faith with the voters" lingered, despite the obvious relief of supporters of the bill.

The Senate passed the House-approved compromise 24-6 Wednesday.

A brief interchamber hassle over technical methods of allocating the funds was settled in informal conference committees and approved as the House and Senate adjourned for the holiday weekend.

The bill earmarks $30 million for local communities on a population basis and $45 million for state recreation projects and $25 million for multi - use urban recreation developed by the department.

Thus a total of some $55 million would go for local and urban recreation.

The long-contested distribution formula was $5 million less than the 30-30-40 split recommended by the governor and far under the 70-30 split outstate legislators and conservationists contended voters had been promised before they approved the bond issue last November.

But it allowed Milliken to commend the formula and call it "a fair and responsible plan," one that "conforms to widely supported proposals for allocating funds on the basis of $70 million to the state department and $30 million for local units."

"I don't care what you call it," countered Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson. "It's not 70-30."

Milliken said the plan "keeps faith with the voters who approved the bond issue in November and who, by substantial majorities of both houses, have now spoken through their elected representatives."

The Legislature "did not keep faith with the people of this state" when it adopted the plan, contended Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights. "If people can't trust us to keep our word, how can we expect them to approve bond issues?"

Rep. DeForrest Strang, R - Sturgis, said the "political machinations of special interest groups changed the bill until it was no longer what the people who voted for the bond issue were told and had every right to expect."

In the Senate, many outstate members objected to speedy action on the bill passed late Tuesday in the lower chamber.

Members had copies of the measure on their desks for little more than six minutes before they were asked to vote, said Sen. John Toepp, R-Cadillac. "I don't like to move that fast."

"I can't believe this as submitted," said Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, picking up a mimeographed copy of the proposal. "I can hardly read it." Mack's motion to postpone action on the bill until members received "legible" copies failed.

Technique For Sawing Down Tree

By ANDY LANG

Q.—I bought a second-hand chain saw and so far have used it only for small jobs, like cutting branches. But I soon want to cut dwon a fairly large tree on our property. Is there something special I should know about cutting down a tree and will I need any help?

A.—There sure is—and, since this is your first project of this sort, you would be wise to have someone else on hand to give you any necessary assistance. Cutting down a small tree is a rather simple matter, but we aren't sure what you mean by a "fairly large" tree, so we'll assume it's at least 20' high and probably higher. The important part of this operation is to make the tree fall in the desired direction. This is accomplished by the manner in which the cuts are made in the trunk, but because a tree might be leaning in the opposite direction from which you wish it to fall, it's a good idea attach a guy rope to the tree to insure that it falls properly.

After that, cut a wedge into the tree on the side where it is to drop. Undercut the first angle of the wedge to a depth of one-third the diameter of the trunk. Overcut the second slice at about a 35-degree slant downward until this cut meets the end of the first cut. The wedge then will fall out. Go around to the opposite side of the tree and backcut slightly above the bottom of the wedge previously cut. Don't cut all the way through to the wedge.

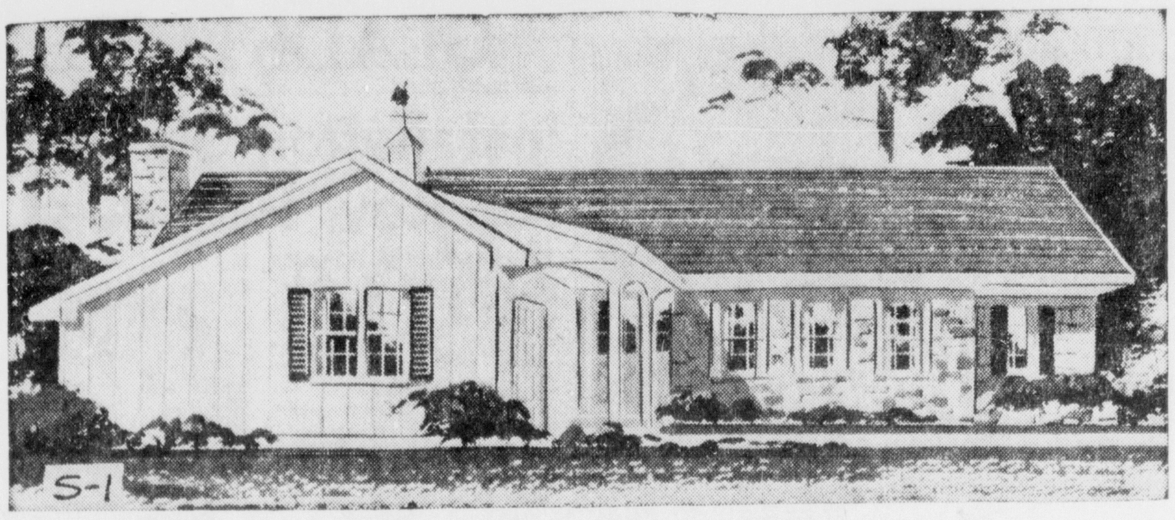

The second you see the tree start to sway—or you hear it begin to crack—stand to one side and simultaneously shut off the saw. If the cuts have been made properly, the tree will fall in the right direction. The guy rope will insure that it does even if you have made a slight miscalculation. But just to be sure, be certain that you or anycne else moves quickly to a safe distance the instant you hear that cracking sound or the tree begins to bend. Your next job is to cut off the branches of the tree. Start at the base of the trunk and, when possible, stand at the opposite side of the tree from the limbs being cut.

Paint Caulking

Q.—I have a caulking job to do. Can caulking compound be painted? If so, how long must I wait before painting?

A.—Regular caulking compound can be painted, but wait a couple of days until the compound has developed an outer layer of "skin." Do not paint black caulking material, which usually is used for roofing repairs and which might bleed through the paint.

MODEST-SIZED LOT can be utilized for construction of this three-bedroom(one-story house because rooms are not placed in long line. In L-shaped design, with side of garage facing the front, family room is set directly behind it next to kitchen.

Family Room Is Featured

By ANDY LANG

Normally, a house with as many rooms as this one is spread out, requiring a fairly large lot. But in this design, we find the garage and utility area tucked in front of the family room, reducing the over-all frontage to 56'.

Architect Herman H. York's placement of the family room in this location is somewhat unusual in a one-story house. Yet it is likely to be the favorite gathering place of the family, set strategically between the kitchen and covered porch on the other. Also, it is directly off the entrance foyer. If it is desired to isolate the family room from the view of the foyer, it can be closed off by a pair of sliding pocket doors. Generally, though, the doors might be better left open, since there is a excellent view of the family room fireplace from the foyer.

A small snack bar in the kitchen faces the family room and thus can double as a counter for serving refreshments at party time. On the other side of the kitchen is the dining room, which is in an L-shaped relationship with the living room, providing an appearance of additional space and making an excellent arrangement for entertaining. Both these rooms, as well as the master bedroom, face the rear yard.

An alcove for dressing and a vanity-topped lavatory are provided for the main bedroom.

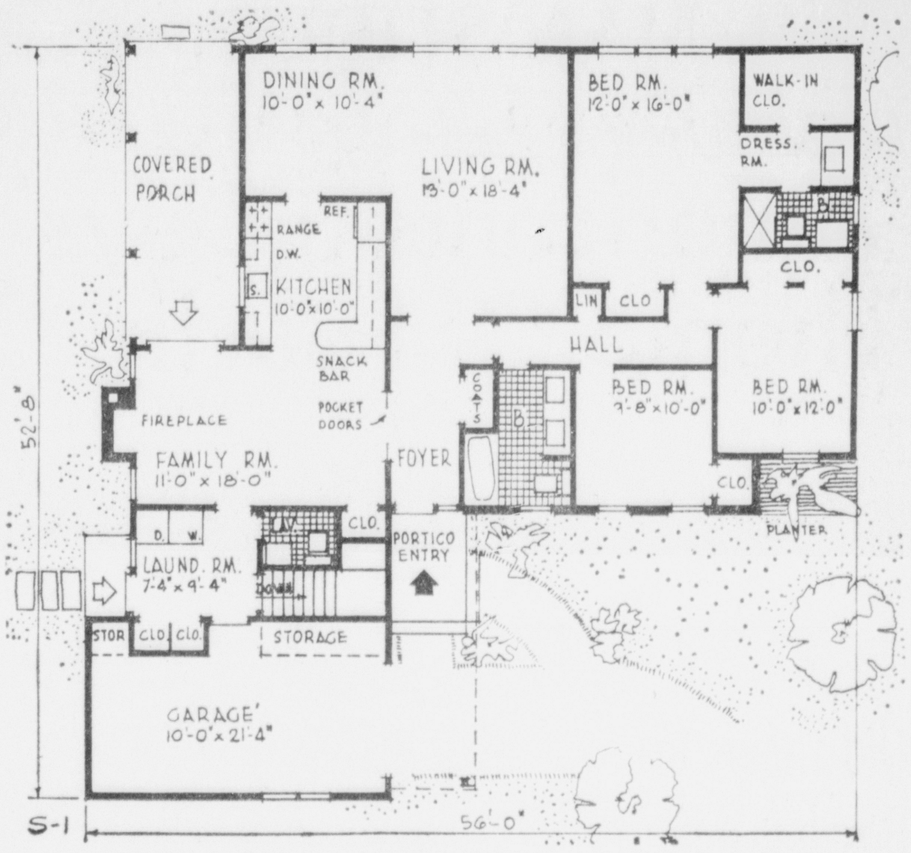

S-1 STATISTICS

Design S-1 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, foyer, three bedrooms and two baths, with a total living area of 1510 square feet. In addition, there is a one-car garage, laundry room, lavatory, covered porch and basement. Over-all dimensions, including the garage and covered porch, are 56' by 52' 8".

One of the two closets in this bedroom is a walk-in. The alcove is best floored with wall-to-wall carpeting, carried through from the bedroom itself.

One of the other two bedrooms has a loset 8' long. The hall bathroom has twin lavatories with a long vanity top. Besides a linen sloset, storage space is available below the vanity in the bathroom as well as in the main bedroom's alcove vanity base.

Getting back to the family room area, the adjoining laundry room has space for a washer and dryer, two closets, lavatory-toilet, a door to the outside and another to the garage.

FLOOR PLANS: Although a somewhat different layout than most one-story houses, especially in the location of the family room, just off the foyer and behind the garage, there is good traffic circulation from theentranceway, with other doors at the covered porch and laundry room.

The latter, with a storage space for garden tools, can be made larger to accommodate one or more additional cars without affecting the architectural appearance of the elevation. There is a full basement under the house.

The wall of the garage facing the front has been given an interesting and attractive off-center gable end. Combined with the covered portico, this softens the entrance area. Stone, wood shingles and vertical battened wood siding are effectively blended.

Although it has a somewhat different floor layout, this house is soundly designed for practical living.

Oil From Concrete

By ANDY LANG

Q.—We do not have a garage and so we park our car on our concrete driveway. There was a leak in the crankcase recently and quite a bit of oil leaked onto the concrete. Now that the damage has been fixed and there is no longer a leak, we'd like to clean off the oil, but so far haven't had much luck, except to make it a bit lighter and spread it over a wider area. How can the oil be removed?

A.—There are a number of products on the market specifically made for this purpose. But if you can't get one, mix one pound of trisodium phosphate in a gallon water. Then, using whiting, make a paste. Spread the paste on the concrete over the oil stains, being sure that the paste is at least half-an-inch thick. If necessary, make more than one batch of the mixture. Wait at least 24 hours, then wipe off the paste with water. If all the oil doesn't come off, repeat the procedure.

Rentals Solve Problems Involving Power Tools

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Since most power tools represent a sizable investment for the home craftsman, he isn't likely to purchase one that he may need only once or twice a year. And when he does decide to buy one, he may be a bit uncertain whether it will perform as expected.

The solution to either problem is to rent a tool and use it on an actual project. While some dealers permit you to run the motor of a machine to be sure it is in good operating condition, there's nothing like using the equipment at home for the intended purpose.

Only a few years ago it was possible to rent only the most fundamental of power tools — electric drills, floor sanders and portable saws, for instance. Today, there is almost nothing you might need which can't be rented, including such things as cement mixers, welding materials, threaders, cutters and other items most home owners require only at widely separated intervals.

★ ★ ★

What about the rental prices? To be sure we would quote the up-to-date prices, we checked with an official of A to Z Rental, which has about 400 franchised rental centers throughout the country, and came up with these figures: a post hole digger goes for $1.50 a day; an electric cement mixer for $4; most electric power tools cost from $2 to $6, with a circular saw or saber saw in the center of the price range at $4; a 20-foot extension ladder rents for $1.50 a day; special carpenter tools, such as a miter box and saw, at $2; plumbing equipment, such as snakes, augurs, pipe wrenches, threaders and cutters, run from 75 cents to $4.50. And if you want something that costs a little more — $12 a day — you can get a chain saw of the type that sells for about $200.

Besides companies that specialize in rentals, there are thousands of hardware stores, lumber yards and building supply dealers which rent tools by the day. Besides those mentioned, some of the other tools available include grinders, planers, routers, jigsaws, soldering guns, blow torches, air and suction hoses, extension cords, spray painting equipment, extra sockets for frenches and special bits. In fact, no matter what it is, if you need it, the chances are you can rent it.

Don't make the mistake of allowing rental costs to pile up by paying for time when the tool is not in use. For example, if you plan to rent a floor sender, arrange to get it exactly when you are ready to use it, otherwise it may remain idle while you move furniture out of the room or perform other chores preparatory to the actual sanding. If you ignore this principle, you'll find yourself paying for two days' rental rather than one, or three days instead of two.

Water Accidents Soar Over 4th

EAST LANSING (AP) —Mention Fourth of July weekend fatalities, and you automatically think of highway deaths.

Not necessarily so, says Sgt. William Carter, State Police water safety officer.

July is the high killer month in Michigan for all types of water deaths—both boating and nonboating.

On some warm weekends, when Michigan's many waters are so inviting, drowning deaths will even top traffic fatalities.

"The great tragedy is that so many of them could be prevented," said Carter. "And so many happen to toddlers and young people."

The home swimming pool has become more than a status symbol, Carter noted. There has been a tremendous increase in the number of such pools and a matching increase in pool drownings.

Home Drownings

There were 15 drownings in home swimming pools last year.

"Some communities have local ordinances requiring the fencing of such pools," he said. "We tried to get through a law making this statewide but it was killed in the Senate."

There were 305 water deaths in Michigan last year, up from 285 the previous year. Of these, 213 were killed in nonboating accidents and 92 died in boating accidents.

"We know so far we are running behind last year," Carter said. "But with warm weather, the drowning kill is sure to go up. This long weekend should be particularly bad."

For instance, while their parents were watching a little League baseball game, two youngsters, six and four years old, wandered away and toppled from a bank to drown in a nearby lake.

Summer Deaths

June, July and August account for 70 per cent of all the water fatalities.

In the nonboating accidents, the agressive and perhaps more foolhardy male accounted for 186 of the deaths and the females only 27.

More than 62 per cent of those drowned in this group were under 20 years of age. The largest toll was 49 youths killed in the 15-19 age group.

In 99 cases, or 46 per cent, the victim was either a poor swimmer or had a physical failure of exhaustion.

The boating deaths showed the same pattern. There were 86 male and only seven female victims.

"You can figure it comes from teen - agers swimming in gravel pits or other forbidden waters and men recklessly driving boats," said Carter.

SOME LITTLE PIGS may go to market, but this one, fully grown is chauffeured by a South Vietnamese man and his wife as they return to their home in a small village three miles east of Tay Ninh. It's probably their most prized possession. Allied troops had driven North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerrillas from the village thus enabling the couple to go back home. (AP Wirephoto)

Stone Skipping Meet On Island

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Keep your eye on the horizon, aim for minimum altitude and practice, practice, practice.

Those tips, coupled with large, ultra-flat stones (for maximum skim) could win you the Little David Flat Stone Trophy Saturday in Mackinac Island's 1969 Stone Skipping and Ge-plunking Open Meet.

Retired world's champion E. M. Tellefson has withdrawn from competition and will serve as a field judge. The island is located in the Straits of Mackinac between Lakes Michigan and Huron.

Tellefson, a retired Navy commander, once skipped a stone 17 times, contest promotors claim.

With much modesty Cmdr. Tellefson admits, "That was under ideal circumstances. The lake was as flat as a flounder."

Number of skips alone will not win the trophy, however. "An entrant may be penalized on defects in form and style," said W. T. Rabe, provost of the island's Stone Skipping and Plunking Club and marshal of the 1969 Open.

"An accomplished stone skipper is poetry in motion," Rabe enthused. "He skips a stone with one continuous movement of his entire body, holding his breath throughout, and ending with a great and audible exhale."

"This is traditionally echoed by the gallery of spectators if they approve of the cast," said Rabe.

Anyone may enter the contest, at Hardy's Inn on the island, and will receive an appropriately emblazoned sweatshirt for just entering. The $2 entry fees will be turned over to Mackinac College which has announced it may close its doors after next year unless financial problems are solved.

Ge-plunking is primarily designed for children under four. Height of splash and noise are the prime assets for a Ge-plunker, contest officials said.

Ambulance Regulations Make Service Unprofitable

Ambulance service, a traditional sideline for funeral directors, is being spurned by the morticians who claim new state and federal regulations have made the business too unprofitable.

However the manager of a large ambulance firm says the directors have wanted out for a long time and are using a rather mild state law, federal minimum wage standards and payment practices of medicare and medicaid as handy excuses.

"In many instances the funeral directors have been looking for a way out because it's not a profitable business for them," said James McLaughlin, manager of Superior Ambulance Service of Wyandotte which he said is the largest in the state and among the 10 largest in the nation.

Equipment

The new state law prescribes new equipment, such as oxygen containers, for ambulances and a $25 license fee per vehicle for profit-making firms, and $10 for nonprofit groups.

Speaking of the new law which became effective Tuesday, McLaughlin said: "It really shouldn't affect them because the training and equipment needed are quite minimal really."

In Muskegon, Achterhoff Mortuary parked its new $19,000 Cadillac ambulance an official said: "I'm ready to sell it."

However the pronouncement came shortly before representatives of seven Muskegon area mortuaries were to meet with governmental officials to discuss a possible subsidy plan.

Officials at the Michigan Department of Public Health in Lansing said three of the seven who quit in Muskegon had obtained $25 ambulance licenses for next year, but declined to name the firms.

Funeral Homes Quiting

In Monroe County seven funeral homes quit the ambulance service Tuesday leaving three funeral homes and a private service which was established a week ago.

In Newaygo County three funeral directors told county officials they are dropping their ambulance service Sept. 1 becaue it is a "severe financial burden."

Harold J. McKinley III, a member of the family which owns the McKinley Chapels in Grant and Newaygo says the new federal minimum wage law is the main reason for dropping the service. It requires payment even when the driver is only on call.

McKinley said the new state law is also a burden. "If we carried all the equipment required by the state we wouldn't have room for the patients," he said.

But he said the ambulance service has put a financial strain on the family for 50 years. "We've taken money out of our pockets to operate the ambulances," he said.

McKinley said he felt the county will have to subsidize a private service and estimated it would cost at least $200,000 a year.

Rising Costs

Rising costs have been forcing new directions in ambulance service for a number of years.

Washtenaw County has made a deal with Superior Ambulance to provide service for county residents.

In Wayne County, an answering service directs callers to ambulance firms located nearest their homes. This service is paid for on a cooperative basis.

In Berry, Allegan, Van Buren and parts of St. Joseph counties ambulance service is supported either by a special tax levy or from money taken directly from the county's general fund. The newest ambulance law specifically allows for ambulance subsidies from the county general funds.

Millage

In the Upper Peninsula the sparsely populated Keweenaw Peninsula is served by Mercy Ambulance of Hancock, the same firm which operates in Houghton.

Most of the isolated communities of the eastern UP have set up their own volunteer services. Many of those towns are 60 miles from the nearest hospital.

Lester Bollwhan, coordinator of emergency services for the State Highway Department, said so far 192 ambulance firms have been issued about 50 individual vehicle licenses and there are indications another 150 to 200 vehicles will be licensed soon. He said that during the past year it was estimated 700 ambulances operated in the state.

Bollwhan said he didn't think the current regulations are too restrictive and does not think the situation will become critical. He said surviving firms should be able to provide adequate coverage in all parts of the state.

School Board Approves Athletic Field Repairs

The Escanaba Area School Board Wednesday night approved repairs to clear-up the poor conditions at the Escanaba Athletic Field.

"The field is in a deplorable condition," said Kenneth West.

"I'd venture to say that almost half the seats at the field need replacing or repair work," said board member Ralph Kaziateck.

He said that the grass was also a problem.

"The field is a mess right down to the sign that faces the highway," Kaziateck added.

He told board members that several letters were missing and that the sign needed painting.

"The gates are rusted, and part of the fence has been torn apart," board member Daniel Wellman added.

Eldred Sattem, maintenance supervisor for area schools, told the board that at one time, the athletic field had a full-time groundskeeper. "And he was kept busy eight hours a day, every day," Sattem added.

Vandalism Blamed

West told the board that the doors on the concession stand were about to fall off. "The equipment in the shower rooms and toilet facilities are also in a bad state of affairs," West said.

Sattem blamed most of the damage at the field on vandalism.

"Vandalism or not, the field must be maintained," Kaziateck stated, adding that if any repair work is needed to be done, that it should be done now.

"Past boards had to cut back on the maintenance of the field in order to make their budgets," West said. "Now we have to put up the funds to repair the problems that have accumulated over the years," he added.

Sattem said that if the board alloted the funds for the repair work, then he would provide the manpower from his maintenance crew.

The board unanimously passed a motion that the necessary funds be provided to the school maintenance department in order to make repairs at the field in time for the fall school term.

Officers Elected

In other business, the board accepted oaths of office from Ronald Lankford, Charles Tooman, and Kenneth West, who were recently re-elected to the board.

The following officers were re-elected for the 1969-70 school year: President - Albin Pearson; Vice President - Dr. Donald Alimenti; Secretary - Charles Tooman; and Treasurer - Kenneth West.

The board passed a motion by Lankford that Lorraine Green be appointed assistant secretary and Stephen Baltic be appointed assistant treasurer for the 1969-70 school year. The reason for this action is so that these persons can sign the checks so that board members will not have to sign over 250 checks every two weeks.

Also Mrs. Green maintains the official minutes of the board and performs many of the functions of secretary at election times.

The First National Bank of Escanaba was designated the depository for general fund moneys for the 1969-70 fiscal year in accordance with board policy of rotating city banks as depositories.

The board decided to continue its policy of rotating meetings to various locations. The decision was made at this time in order to comply with State Law.

Teachers Needed

Luther Barrett, school superintendent, informed the board that Gary Revord, math teacher at the high school is quitting his position here and is going to teach in Marquette where he has some business interests. "This means we now have 12 vacancies for teachers," Barrett said.

The board passed a motion providing up to $600 for installation of new lights at the athletic field. These lights have nothing to do with the lights being put up by the Fan Club for night football.

A letter of resolution to the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate Board requesting the transfer of the Lake Bluff Development area to the Escanaba school district also was approved.

A date for a public hearing on the 1969-70 school budget will be announced at the July 8 board meeting.

CIVIC CENTER CHAMBERS were used by the City Council for the first time Wednesday night. The former councilroom in the City Hall has been remodeled into city administrative offices. Until the Civic Center was completed Council met in the Delta County Building. Seated around the curved table, from front left, are City Attorney John Erickson, City Manager George Harvey, and Councilmen Richard Pryal, Robert Bink, Mayor Cecil Chase, Edward Cox and Miles Dupuie. Escanaba Opposes Railroad Proposal

Escanaba has joined the cities of Marinette, Wis., and Menominee in formal opposition to the proposed discontinuance of passenger train service north of Green Bay, Wis., by the Chicago & North Western Railway Co.

The City Council Wednesday night, meeting for the first time in new chambers in the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center, petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for a hearing on the C&NW's proposal to replace the passenger train with Greyhound bus service.

The resolution opposition and protest cited loss of jobs and an adverse economic impact on the area in addition to the loss of public transportation as the reasons for the opposition.

Councils at both Marinette and Menominee previously had filed petitions of opposition.

Bus In Jeopardy

The North Western proposes to end passenger trains north of Green Bay on July 16, but if the ICC grants a hearing the move could be delayed for several months.

Opposition by the communities, however, could jeopardize the alternate bus service proposed by the railroad.

William F. Cottrell, commerce attorney for the railroad, said at a meeting in Escanaba Monday that "if there is opposition to our proposal it will seriously affect our thinking about the bus service."

He said there is no guarantee that the railroad would back it.

A decision from the ICC on whether or not a hearing will be granted is expected by July 14.

In other business, council voted to readvertise the former Club 314 site at the corner of 3rd Ave. S., and 14th St. for sale, approved pavement of 10th Ave. S., from S. 19th St. to S. 20th St., adopted the ordinance providing for the codification of all city ordinances, approved on first reading an ordinance to provide for a City Board of Review appointed by council, and voted to abandon the public fire alarm system.

Restriction changed

City Manager George Harvey reported that no bids had been received in the first listing for sale of the Club 314 site, possibly because of the $4,500 minimum bid and a restriction construction be started on a building within 90 days. A second advertising will be made with a $4,200 minimum bid and a year's time limit on start of construction.

The public fire alarm system — fire alarm boxes located throughout part of the city — will be discontinued because of the estimated $25,000 to $40,000 needed to put the system in top condition. An additional expense would be required to expand the system to all parts of the city.

Harvey said the system was installed 70 years ago and Councilman Edward Cox noted that with today's communications it is obsolete.

The first meeting in the new chambers was attended by members of the Delta County Board of Supervisors, the City Commission of Gladstone and the City Council of Manistique, who earlier were hosted at a joint dinner-meeting by the City of Escanaba.

Reported Russia Wants Naval Base Set Up In India

WASHINGTON (AP) — An authoritative Asian diplomatic source says the Soviet Union has asked India for permission to establish a naval base which could dominate shipping lanes to all of East Asia and the western Pacific.

So far, the source reported, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India has resisted the request for a Soviet fleet base in the Andaman Islands, astride the Bay of Bengal.

The source did not say how extensive a military base the Soviets are proposing for the islands, which were seized by the Japanese early in World War II because of their location.

An Andaman base could play a key role in Moscow's newly proposed collective security system for the containment of mainland China, Soviet diplomats were said to have emphasized in their proposal to India.

The Asian security arrangement was first mentioned publicly June 8 by Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet party first secretary, in his opening address to a world Communist conference in Moscow.

Christmas Tree Meeting Called Next Wednesday

A twilight meeting on shearing and other Christmas tree production practices has been scheduled for Wednesday, July 9, announced J. L. Heirman, Delta County Extension Director for Michigan State University.

The meeting will be at the Joe Mosier farm located on County Rd. 428 between Perkins and Rapid River starting at 7 o'clock. All persons interested in Christmas tree growing are invited to attend this event.

How to shear pine, spruce and fir will be explained and demonstrated by Roy E. Skog, MSU Forestry Specialist. He will also show how trees with poor color can be sprayed with a green colorant to improve their color. This is a practice commonly used to improve the color of certain strains of Scotch pine that have inherently yellowish foliage.

Other topics that will be covered include the selection of trees to plant for Christmas trees, and new genetics findings relating to Scotch pine. Scotch pine is widely planted for Christmas trees, but not all strains make good Christmas trees.

The use of herbicides rather than plowing furrows for planting trees is another topic that will be discussed. Herbicides properly used eliminate grass and weeds, but leave the fertile top soil in place in which to plant trees.

No Paper

There will be no paper tomorrow due to the holiday. The next issue will be on Saturday, July 5.

Big Bay Given State Approval On Bond Issue

LANSING (AP)—The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved the issuance of $1.2 million in bonds by the Big Bay de Noc School district of Delta and Schoolcraft counties for new school construction.

The approval clears the way for the consolidated district to proceed with plans for a new building to house elementary and high school classrooms on a site near Garden Corners.

Voters of the district approved the bond issue Sept. 30, 1968, but authorization to issue the bonds had been held up by the Municipal Finance Commission.

Milk Price Rise Will Not Affect Prices In U.P.

Joseph Heirman, MSU county extension director, said today that in double checking with the Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA), U.P. Division, he found out that the milk price increase in the Lower Peninsula will not affect local dairy farmers or consumers as previously reported.

Heirman said U.P. dairy farmers have a contract that does not expire until October, at which time they will bargain for their own rate increase.

Township Deeds Park To County

Pulaski Park in Bark River Township is being deeded to Delta County by the Township Board, not the Bark River Lions Club as reported Wednesday.

The park originally was donated to the township by the Pulaski Club. The township will pay $300 annually to the county to help defray maintenance costs.

The Bark River Lions Club and township citizens have been interested in park upkeep, however.

Time Isue May Go On Ballot

LANSING (AP)—A resolution to place the issue of daylight savings time before Michigan voters has been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit.

"I feel obligated to reenter the daylight savings time picture as a result of thousands of letters and telephone calls from citizens who registered what I believe to be legitimate complaints," Dzendzel said.

"If the resolution is not adopted by the Legislature," Dzendzel said, "I have been told by organizations and by individual citizens that another petition drive will be conducted.

IRS To Probe Doctors' Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service will check the income tax returns of some 10,000 doctors paid under medicare and medicaid as Congress probes cost overruns in the medical help programs.

In rebuttal today, the president of the American Medical Association, Dr. Dwight L. Wilbur said, "very few M.D.'s participating in medicaid are guilty of overcharging and otherwise exploiting the program."

City Threatens Red Owl, Inc.

The City Council Wednesday night threatened to cite Red Owl Stores, Inc., under one of the city's public nuisance ordinances if signs proclaiming the Lincoln Rd. site for the new Red Owl Family Shopping center are not erected by Aug. 1.

Mayor Cecil Chase said the city has done everything it can to assist Red Owl in the development, including vacating streets and approving easements, and the "least" Red Owl can do is to put up a sign on the site to explain the "mess."

City Manager George Harver said he had been in contact with Red Owl officials and had been assured that bids are expected to be let for the shopping center developmnt within the next several weeks with construction scheduled to begin by Sept. 1. Opening of the center is still planned for next spring, he reported.

Chase said the present condition of the site is a detriment to the city, particularly during the tourist season.

He said that if no sign is put up by Aug. 1, the city has a "nuisance" ordinance and "let's enforce it."

The resolution placing the Aug. 1 deadline on Red Owl was approved by a 4-1 vote with Councilman Edward Cox voting "No". Cox favored giving the company more time.

Allen Refuses To Join Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Rich Allen hinted Wednesday night that he might play baseball in Japan or South America or even go live on a farm with a few horses rather than return to the Philadelphia Phillies.

The 27-year-old Allen, one of the great hitters in baseball, was suspended indefinitely June 24 for failing to show up for a doubleheader against the New York Mets at Shea Stadium. He reacted by saying he would never play for the Phillies again.

Allen has refused to talk with most writers and the broadcasting media, but tonight sold his thoughts to a local television station (WPHL-Channel 17) in a copyrighted half hour dialogue.

Outdoor Sports

By Bob Gregg

Many Escanaba anglers have already caught their first coho. However, this fall area fishermen will be catching their own "home-grown" Whitefish River salmon.

A 1968 stocking of over 100,000 fish about five inches long is expected to return later this summer as 10 to 20 pound "tackle busters" that will swarm into Little Bay de Noc.

At this writing, no one really knows what to expect or just how good the fishing will be, but from all looks things are really going to "boom" this fall.

First of all, the smolt salmon survived well their 40-mile trip from the hatchery at Thompson to the Whitefish River. After spending several days in the stream inprinting on their senses a place to return, the young coho worked their way down to Lake Michigan and the prolific alewife.

This initial plant of 100,000 fish is a pretty substantial stocking, compared with the panic caused by a small plant of 30,000 fish at Thompson.

★ ★ ★

"We are looking forward to a real fine harvest of salmon in the Little Bay de Noc area," said Cliff Long, Department of Natural Resources fish biologist.

Long told me that he expects a return of over 30 per cent of the salmon that were stocked in the spring of 1968. "There will also be a substantial number of 'jack' salmon caught along with the adults," Long added.

These 'jacks' will be a partial result of this years stocking of 150,000 fish in the Haymeadow Creek, a tributary of the Whitefish.

If all goes as well as it has on other Michigan coho streams, Escanaba area anglers can count on at least 30,000 salmon completing their spawning run up the Whitefish to Haymeadow Creek.

Besides the fish that will actually run the river, there will be thousands of salmon that will hang just off the mouth of the river in Little Bay de Noc acting as easy prey for fishermen.

★ ★ ★

River fishing shouldn't be neglected. "The Whitefish is big enough to provide some excellent stream fishing for these big coho," Long said. "And I expect to see hundreds of boats swarming the river and the bay on weekends."

Already several coho charter boats are starting to cruise the waters around Escanaba, Gladstone and Rapid River in search of big salmon.

When these salmon start showing up in sport catches all hell is going to break loose, and "coho fever" will strike the Escanaga area.

Anglers! Get your fishing tackle ready.

There is going to be a lot of absenteeism at factories and business establishments when the run starts. You wait and see.

SCENES LIKE THIS will be common this fall as Escanaba area anglers latch into the thousands of big coho salmon that will swarm up the Whitefish River. (DNR Photo)

Tigers Brighten Pennant Hopes; McLain Wins 12th

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' slim hopes of another American League pennant were a tiny bit brighter today thanks to Denny McLain, aching teeth, aching shinbone and all.

McLain shook off the effects of a sizzling line drive which felled him in the eighth inning as he blanked the Boston Red Sox 7-0 Wednesday night to become the AL's first 12-game winner this season.

He got explosive extra base hitting support, especially from Tom Tresh — who banged his third homer in two days — and usually weak-hitting Don Wert who slammed his third homer.

Four Tiger doubles in a big three run sixth inning made things easy for McLain.

Not Over Yet

"The pennant race is not over yet. . . .if we can get within seven or eight games of Baltimore this weekend, we still will have a good shot at them," said Tresh as he looked ahead to the Tigers' big four - game series with the Orioles over the Fourth of July weekend.

McLain, surrounded by newsmen in the Tiger dressing room, said, "I am not saying anyone is going to catch Baltimore but at least we can make a race of it.

"The last time I saw the the Orioles, they did not look like a super-team but had some weakness like any other club. I can't see them going into a major tailspin though, for they have a lot of talent."

Added Tiger Manager Mayo Smith, "Two wins in a row over the Red Sox are great but Baltimore still is the team we have to catch. I hope we can do some good against them in the series here this weekend. . .we will have four cracks at them."

Act Different

The Tigers, who have collected 19 runs and 24 base hits in walloping the second-place Red Sox in the first two games of a three-game series acted like a different ball club in their dressing room Wednesday.

There was no celebration but a new air of confidence seemed to fill the room as the free-swinging Tigers enjoyed the fruits of two easy wins over the faltering Red Sox, who have dropped five in a row — their longest losing streak of the season.

A frustrated Red Sox Manager Dick Williams had little to say after the whitewashing which followed a 12-4 loss Tuesday. "We are playing poor ball at the moment and I don't know what the answer is," he told newsmen.

Williams Upset

Williams was especially upset about the fact that Wert, who took an anemic .134 batting average into Wednesday's game came up with one of the big home run wallops.

"I did not expect Wert would hit that well," he said, adding, "I was not too surprised to see Tresh hit another home run against us, for he still is a pretty fair hitter."

The win moved the Tigers to within a half-game of second-place Boston in the AL's Eastern Division and left them 11½ games behind the leading Orioles.

Nary a Red Sox runner reached third as McClain took only 128 pitches to mow them down on eight hits — all singles.

McLain gave the 25,487 spectators and Mayo Smith a big scare in the eighth when he was hit squarely in the left shinbone by a wicked drive off the bat of Boston second-baseman Dick Scholfield. McLain managed to get to the ball and tossed the runner out.

Plain Murder

He then slumped to his knees as the Tigers rushed to his side. "With Earl Wilson and Daryl Patterson still on the ailing list, our pitching staff is not in top shape and it would have been plain murder if we lost McLain," said Smith.

McLain finished the game, although he was touched for two singles in the ninth, to start some activity in the Tiger bullpen.

"It hurt like the devil," he said as he applied a wet towel to the shinbone in front of his locker.

"I was scheduled already to go to Ford Hospital Thursday morning and have five hours of dental work as all my upper teeth are going to be capped," he said. "If the shinbone is still sore tomorrow, the doctors want me to get x-rays as long as I will be in the hospital anyway."

Pretty Lucky

McLain said he was "pretty lucky" to get away with the shutout over the Red Sox.

"Carl Yastrzmski and Joe Lahoud both hit real long drives off me and I thought both of them were long out of the park, but the heavy air held them up and both were outs.

"Wasn't that a terrific catch Al Kaline made?" he asked. McLain referred to a fourth inning play in which Al Kaline went to the right field barrier, jumped in the air and hauled down a drive off the bat of Reggie Smith after it appeared the ball was certain to be a home run.

Wert got the Tiger attack underway with his second-inning solo homer and Tresh ran the count to 2-0 with a similar shot in the fifth. The Tigers then rocked Boston starter and loser Bill Landis with four doubles in a three-run sixth inning to take a 6-0 lead.

Freehan, Jim Northrup, Jim Price and Wert all doubled in that inning.

Phils Knock Off Pirates To Record Ninth Straight

By The Associated Press

Ever since Richie Allen bolted the Philadelphia Phillies, almost everybody on the team has been taking up the slack. Now, even the relief pitchers are getting into the act.

Reliever Al Raffo helped himself to his first major league victory by knocking in three runs with a single and a squeeze bunt as the Phils knocked off Pittsburgh 14-4 Wednesday night for their ninth straight victory.

The Phils lost their first two games after Allen jumped the team in New York last week, but they haven't been beaten since.

Braves First

Meanwhile, Atlanta ripped Cincinnati 9-4 to take over first place in the National League West, while Los Angeles dropped to second, a half-game back, after an 8-2 loss to Houston.

In other NL games, Chicago whipped Montreal 4-2, New York defeated St. Louis 6-4 in 14 innings and San Francisco stopped San Diego 6-3.

Raffo, who has two defeats, polished off a four-run second inning with a two-run single, then squeezed in another run with his bases-loaded bunt in the sixth.

He replaced starter Billy Champion after two runs had scored in the first and kept the Pirates in check until they chased him with a run in the seventh, cutting the Phils' lead to 7-4.

Save Victory

But Philadelphia scored five runs in the eighth, including two on Johnny Briggs' single, and added two more in the ninth to preserve Raffo's triumph. Briggs also had a homer in the fourth.

Atlanta's vault into first place was a rather painful one for the Braves in one respect.

Five Atlanta batters were hit by pitches—a modern National League record for one game—and the three hit in the second inning equalled a major league mark.

The Braves, however, apparently thought Gerry Arrigo, who hit two, and Pedro Ramos, who hit three, were just wild and never stirred up a fuss during the game.

Unusual Play

The wild game also was marked by an unusual double play on what should have been a Cincinnati hit. With the bases loaded and one out in the third, Tommy Helms lined a sinking liner to right.

The Reds on base apparently thought Hank Aaron had caught the ball and didn't run. But Aaron had trapped the ball, and he threw to second for a force play there and the runner at second was tagged out off base for the double play.

Reliever Claude Raymond singled in two of the Braves' runs, while Orlando Cepeda had a two-run double as Atlanta won its fifth straight.

The St. Louis Cards blew three good scoring chances, then watched as Ken Boswell smacked a two-out RBI single and pitcher Ron Willis gave up a bases-loaded walk in the 14th for the Mets' winning runs.

First Slam

Vic Davalillo's grand slam homer—his first in the majors—had tied it for the Cards, 4-4, in the eighth.

But St. Louis couldn't capitalize on three separate rallies after that against reliever Tug McGraw.

Curt Flood was out by inches at the plate in the ninth when Vada Pinson doubled and catcher Jerry Grote made a lunging play on Tommie Agee's throw to the plate to nab the speedy Cardinal.

The Cards loaded the bases with none out in the 10th, but McGraw retired the next three batters. St. Louis again loaded the bases in the 13th with two out, but McGraw got Tim McCarver to pop out, ending that threat. All told, the Cards stranded 18.

Astros Win

Johnny Edwards' four hits and Doug Rader's three doubles paced a 12-hit Houston attack. Curt Blefary also chipped in his second homer of the season to back winner Don Wilson, who scattered six hits.

Jim Qualls, a rookie recalled from the minors only a few weeks ago, knocked in the first two runs of his major league career in helping the Cubs past Houston.

San Francisco took advantage of Jim Ray Hart's two-run homer in the fourth to hand San Diego its fifth straight loss. It was the first four-bagger of the season for Hart, who had 23 last year.

Juan Marichal boosted his record to 10-5 with his fifth victory in his last six decisions, although he gave up nine hits.

Rotary Leads Little League

Matt Smith, ace hurler for John Chylek's Rotary nine, led his Little League team to the top of the heap this past week as Rotary really poured it on coming into the home stretch.

Rotary collected 16 hits in an abbreviated three inning game against VFW and won 21-0 Tuesday night and came back last night to stop the Bankers 12-1 with Smith at the throttle.

While not as sharp as usual with his control, Smith threw his fourth one-hitter of the season and rapped out a home run and two doubles at the plate and extended his hitting streak to 12 straight blows, a new league record. Smith is currently leading the league with a .687 batting average and a 4-0 pitching mark.

Credit Union sidetracked the Lions second half chances when rookie pitcher Kevin Cutler had first inning control problems and was forced to leave the game before the side was out. Pep Belland stifled the usually heavy hitting Lions on two hits to pick up the 7-1 victory.

Youthful Kiwanis added two wins when they beat the VFW 15-5 and then cooled off Credit Union 7-0 as John Hirn hurled his best game of the year. In losing 2-1 to Rotary and 4-1 to the Lions, Exchange served notice that they will be contenders in 1970 along with Kiwanis.

Next week's schedule:

Monday (5:15) Credit Union at Eagles; Rotary at Exchange

Tuesday (5:15) Credit Union at Bankers; Tournament team practice

Wednesday (5:15) Bankers at Eagles; Tournament team practice

Thursday (5:15) Bankers at Rotary; Tournament team practice

Varieties Trip Civic Boosters

The Varieties staged a big rally in the final two innings of play last night to upend the Civic Boosters 18-17 in Escanaba Girls Softball League play.

The Varieties trailed 17-6 in the fifth before rallying for the victory. Kerry Anderson was the winning pitcher and Mary Walbridge suffered the defeat.

COST CUTTING PLAN

CHICAGO (AP) — Golf courses may depend on the computer to keep the budget balanced, the greens green and the handicaps fair.

John Spodnik, president of the Golf Course Superintendents Association, foresees the day when golf plants will utilize the computer to cut costs and make the game more enjoyable.

Spodnik said computerized information on daily records of man hours needed to maintain tees, fairways and greens provides a record when requesting improvement funds from club committees.

Esky Cubs Nip Menominee, 4-3

MENOMINEE — The Escanaba Cubs served notice on all other American Legion baseball teams in the U.P. last night that they are not going to give up their U.P. title very easily again this season.

The Cubs rallied for two runs in the top of the ninth inning to upend the Menominee Chiefs of the amateur Wishigan League, 4-3.

After two were out in the ninth, Dan Mylander reached first on an error and advanced to second on a wild pitch before stealing third. Gregg Johnson then walked and stole second. Mylander scored on a passed ball with Pete Ross at the plate and Ross followed with a swinging bunt single to score Johnson and get the victory.

Al Larson and Doug Howard shared the mound duties for the Cubs with Howard picking up the victory. John Paitl and Dave Gokey hurled for Menominee and Paitl was charged with the defeat.

Johnson led Escanaba at the plate with two hits, one a booming double off the left centerfield fence to score Ken Robitaille in the seventh inning. Other Cubs getting hits were Robitaille, Mylander, Ross, Tom Kangas and Steve Vanlerberghe.

The Cubs get back into action Saturday with a doubleheader at Powers. The first game will get underway at 2 p.m.

Jackson Hits Three HR's; Says Homer Records Safe

By The Associated Press

The home run records of Babe Ruth and Roger Maris are safe. Reggie Jackson guarantees it.

"I'm not going to get 60 home runs because I'm not a 60-home run man," Jackson said Wednesday night after belting his 31st, 32nd and 33rd homers in Oakland's 5-0 victory over Seattle.

Some of the figure filberts have other ideas and point out that Jackson's pace is 10 games ahead of Maris, who hit 61 in a 162-game season in 1961, and 23 ahead of Ruth, who walloped 60 in a 154-game campaign in 1927, both for the New York Yankees. Wednesday night's was Oakland's 72nd game of the season.

Not Ready

"It's nice to be compared with great players like Ruth and Maris, but I don't think I'm ready to be put in their class yet," said the 23-year-old outfielder. "I'm so young. If I have five or six good years back-to-back I might consider myself in their class."

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota topped the Chicago White Sox 4-2, Detroit drubbed Boston 7-0, Washington whipped Cleveland 5-1, the New York Yankees edged Baltimore 3-2 and Kansas City shaded California 1-0.

Jackson's explosion was the eighth time this season he has hit more than one homer in a game. The major league record is 11 by Detroit's Hank Greenberg in 1938. Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh set the NL mark of 10 in 1947.

Not Trying

"I only hit three homers in a game once before in organized ball," said Jackson, who is in his second full season in the majors. "That was for Modesto in the California League in 1966. I wasn't consciously trying to hit home runs against Seattle. Once you do that, you try too hard and you don't hit any."

Jackson connected in the first and sixth innings off Marty Pattin and in the eighth against Diego Segui. All three homers came with the bases empty.

The first was a fly ball that barely cleared the fence just inside the right field foul pole some 330 feet away. The second was a towering 425-foot shot over the center field fence and the third was a line drive which just cleared the wall in center, which is 400 feet from home plate.

Good Pitches

"The first one was lucky," Jackson said. "The wind blew it out. The second came on a curve ball low and away, not normally a home run pitch, but I hit it good. The third was off Segui's fast ball. I knew he'd throw me his best pitch and I was looking for it. I was fortunate to get my pitches and not foul them off. That's the difference between a good hitter and a bad hitter."

Virtually overlooked was John "Blue Moon" Odom's five-hitter, which kept the A's three percentage points in front of Minnesota in the AL West. It was the fifth consecutive triumph for Odom, who ran his record to 11-3 and also hit a home run.

Minnestoa's Dave Boswell checked the White Sox on two hits until Harmon Killebrew in the eighth inning slammed his 19th homer. The game was called because of rain after 8½ innings. It was Chicago's first setback in Milwaukee, where they play one game against each AL club. They had won the first five.

Continue Mastery

Washington continued its mastery of Cleveland, beating the Indians for the ninth time this year—10 in a row over-all—as Paul Casanova and Brant Alyea each knocked in two runs. The Senators, who have won six in a row, also ended Sam McDowell's seven-game winning streak. Tony Horton homered for the Indians' run.

The Yankees made it two straight over high-flying Baltimore as Mel Stottlemyre spaced eight hits and Horace Clarke drilled two singles and a run-scoring triple. Stottlemyre, 11-6, got Boog Powell on a fly ball and Brooks Robinson on a game-ending double play after the Orioles had scored a run in the ninth.

Bill Butler of Kansas City won a battle of four-hitters from California's Tom Murphy by hurling his first shutout in the majors. The Royals scored in the first on a walk to Pat Kelly, Mike Fiore's single and Bob Oliver's infield out.

In loving memory of Arthur Charles Horchner who passed away 20 years ago today, July 3, 1949.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance of you.

But this they wipe out never;

Kathy: 'Don't Get Too Upset By Wild Kids'

By MEL HEIMER

At 20, Kathy Garver is a year too old, really, to qualify as national teen-age chairman for the March of Dimes—which she is, for the second year in a row—but she certainly is the right age, and has the right amount of intelligence, to give a pretty candid opinion on the wild young generation . . . and it's encouraging.

"It's not all that wild," says the petite, brown-haired co-star of "A Family Affair" on CBS-TV (she's Cissy, the oldest of the three moppets). "As a matter of fact, while a lot of college kids dress like hippies and use any old uprising to get out of classes—they're just like high school kids, you know, and LOVE to get out out of study—they're basically against any drastic change in the country's way of doing things.

"In brief, they might talk a lot—but not much of it is meaningful, and they know it."

The old values, Kathy goes on, aren't that much in disfavor with the young generation nor is it nearly as violent as the scruffy minority sometimes makes it seem to be. "There's no cause for alarm," she says. "I still think that it's kind of a fad, this campus mish-mash. You know, someone says 'Hey, let's get out and revolt' and somebody says 'Fantastic!' "

KATHY GARVER, shown in "A Family Affair" with Anissa Jones (left) and Johnnie Whitaker, has a college degree, but never had time to do any campus rioting. She's been a busy actress since she was six.

Miss Garver has made it through college herself—she has a speech degree from UCLA—but she never really has had time to do any plain and fancy campus rioting. "I was a precocious child," she says in remembering her childhood in Long Beach, Calif., "and at three I was taking singing and dancing lessons.

"At six, I got my first agent. My brother and I appeared in a pageant or something at the college my older sister was attending, and an agent signed me and presto, I was in the Bob Mitchum movie, 'Night of the Hunter.' "

KATHY has been working in show biz ever since, with a handful of movies, including "The Ten Commandments" and "I'll Cry Tomorrow," and any number of TV performances in such shows as "Big Valley," "Ben Casey," Dr. Kildare" and "Father Knows Best." And she doesn't feel her childhood was warped by that movie exposure.

"I went to a regular school all the time, with occasional help from a tutor," she says, "and I thought the movie sets and the people and all the gadgets, like the time Cecil D. deMille put the Red Sea back again, were just lovely."

Like most movie moppets, she worked until she was 11 or 12, and then cooled it for a few years. "I had the reverse of a stage mother," she recalls. "In fact ,she kept telling me, 'Look; if you don't want to do this, just quit.' When the "Family Affair" job showed itself, the part originally was for a blue-eyed blonde, so somebody put some particular spray on Kathy's hair "until the man interviewing me said 'What's the matter with your hair? It's turning green.' " But she got the job anyway—and now the show is going into its fourth season. It bears no resemblance, incidentally, to the novel, "A Family Affair," written by a well-known author.

Because Brian Keith has one of those Fred MacMurray deals, where he only has to work 75 days a season on "Affairs," frequently the company is filming bits and parts of four shows at once. "We're whizzes at wardrobe changes," Miss Garver says proudly.

KATHY says she skis—and quite well—in the High Sierras when she can get away, and she plays the piano "quite badly." She also paints and makes mosiacs, is honorary chairman of the California Youth Conference for the Mentally Retarded, lives alone in a W. Los Angeles apartment, loves parties . . . and doesn't worry about the younger generation.

Flags Fly At Key Monument

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — Every Boy Scout knows that the American flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset.

There are some exceptions, however, where it flies day and night in all kinds of weather. Most of these are within a 40-mile radius of Baltimore:

—The east and west fronts of the U.S. Capitol in Washington.

—Ft. McHenry in Baltimore, where the flag inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star-Spangled Banner."

—The Flag House in Baltimore. There, Mary Pickersgill made the flag Key saw waving at Ft. McHenry.

—And at Key's grave in Frederick's Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The 16-foot Key monument, on a grassy knoll surrounded by stately trees, is topped by a standing figure of Key.

His right hand indicates the flag to his companions. In his left is the hat taken from his head in reverence.

Key penned a stanza on the back of an envelope during a 25-hour British bombardment of Baltimore in 1814. Congress designated it the National Anthem in 1931.

When Key died in 1843 in Baltimore, he was buried there. His body was removed to the family lot in Mount Olivet in 1866. In 1898, Key and his wife Mary, were placed in a crypt at the base of the monument.

The monument was financed by a legislative appropriation, fund raising by the Key Monument Association and contributions of pennies, nickels and dimes from school children across the United States.

Many school children are among the tourists visiting the grave.

Robert A. Kline, superintendent and secretary of the non-profit cemetery, keeps a fresh flag fluttering atop the flagpole at the monument. This means replacement at least once a month.
